The Values That Guide Us

FOCUS ON GOOD OUTCOMES FOR OUR TENANTS

Our society exists to serve the needs of low to moderate income tenants. Housing is the most basic need required for good health, social and financial outcomes. We focus our activities on our tenants achieving these outcomes.

_Focusing on good outcomes for our tenants looks like:_

- Carefully matching tenants to rental units that best meet their needs.
- Assisting tenants when their tenancy is at risk by helping them with repayment plans or referring them to resources to help resolve their issues.
- Ensuring we communicate roles and responsibilities.
- Providing respectful and timely communication as issues arise.
- Maintaining our properties to a high standard, so tenants feel valued and respected.

RESPECT

We value our tenants, staff and volunteers as unique individuals who each bring something valuable and important to our relationships and work.

_Respect looks like:_

- Positive communication – focusing on strengths and opportunities, not deficiencies and shortcomings.
- Starting with curiosity and not judgment when assessing others.
- Accepting we each have a responsibility for being respectful.
- Addressing conflict: by getting assistance, by not letting events fester and by differentiating between facts and feelings.

FLEXIBILITY

Our work is varied and complex and our staff and tenants have varied and complex lives. Therefore, as an employer and landlord we support flexibility in the workplace as long as there is advance notice, it fits operational needs and does not pass a responsibility or burden to another person.

_Flexibility looks like:_

- Staff volunteer to work at different hours to meet extraordinary operational needs.
- Staff are given time to attend or participate in personal events that are important to them.
• New tenants are given flexible move in dates.
• Tenants are given repayment plans when they are in arrears and in financial difficulty.
